GENERAL FISK IS STILL HOPEFUL

New Yors, June 24.—Speaking of the pro-ibition defeat in Rhode Island, General New York, June 24.—Speaking of the prohibition defeate in Rhode Island, General Clinton B. Fisk, the late probibition candidate for president, says: "The liquor Dealers of the state, backed by the Liquor Dealers association of New York, poured into the state all the money they could use legitimately, and the people diety controlled obliged their masters to the dot. The liquor people arranged it in the legislature that the vote on the repeat of the amendment should take place two days after the question had been voted on in Pennsylvania, as they were morally certain of the result in that state. After all, the contest has not been so much between the smooth keepers' party and the prohibitionists as between the prohibition party and the party of highlifeense. Until the high ficeuse craze has run itself out there is little to be hoped for by the prohibitionists. I honestly believe that the result of the defeats that our party has sustained recently, and especially in Rhodo Island, will have the effect to concentrate all good temperance people, and that they will see that there is nothing in the cry of high license, and that prohibition, and the solute and total, is the only hope. We are not dishrartened or discouraged. We can stand a Rhode Island defeat. It is but a temporary set back, and we shell recover from its effects and gain strength through that very bource."

THE CHIPPEWA OUTBREAK.

A Report on the War Department.

Washington, June 24.—A report on the recent outbreak among the Chippewa Indians was received at the war department to the serior Captain Hannay, who was sent there from Fort Snelling.

There seems to be some apprehension on the part of the whites. Some ill will exists on the part of the Indians because of the accidental killing of one of their number as winter by the whites, and on the part of the whites because they seem to think they are cuttiffed to the land thereabouts, but there is no diagraph of an outbreak.

The general understanding here is that following this late purchase the company will build two important branches to complete their local system. One that the officers of the company have discussed for some time past is a branch from Corvallis through Munroe to Junction City. The other branch will be nothing else than a line to Astoria from Forest Grove. At the company soffices here no information will be given concerning the road but it is said that it is whiting to advance money to the Astoria. The tao new roads like all the others the company owns in Oregon art to be operated under the names of the lines in Oregon.

In Portland during a year or two past there have been two factions of gamblers. Weber was a representative of one of the factions, Olds of the other. The differences were caused by the partiality of the police for the Olds faction. The police suppressed the Weber games, but allowed the Olds games to go on, and Weber, as an unreasonable fellow, made a fuse about it, denounced the regime tabled against the gamblers of the able tellow, made a man another the police, talked against the gamblers of the rival party, and showed binned? "a had man" generally. On the other hand Olds, who enjoyed the favor of the police, was "a quiet man," "in good man," a man of various virals as the second man, a man of various virals as we may suppose, "gut up" tues, who, as we may suppose, "put up" with fine and open-handed regularity.

Olds stationed himself on the street corner, with his hand in his pistol pocket, watting for an opportunity for "self-defense." Weber come along, and Olds, instead of allowing him to pass, accosted him in a style state of the property of th hen, without waiting for any overt act then, without waiting for any overt act. on the part of his enemy, shot him down. After he had fallen, the assassin emptied his re-volver into the prostrate body. The gam-hlers and the salson men of the Olds party blers and the saloon men of the Oids party then rulsed a large sum of money for defense, of Oids, and the police come upon the wit-mess stand with easier seal to excuse the as-gastle. Upon trial of the case the jury has

This in a nutshell, is the history. Blacker even than the assessination is the conduct of the police. It is scandalous, shameful, a disgrace to decency; an outrage upon law, treason to the administration of justice. The partiality of the police for one set of gamblers over another put in motion the train of circumstances that led up directly to the murder, and now they show their sympathy with the murderer and do their best to ex-cuse and acquit him. Instead of doing their lawful duty in suppression of all gambling, they did what was infinitely worse than re-fusing to act at all; that is, they suvored one gang of gamblers white persecuting another, and established a "gambling trust" under their own protection. A quarrel that resulted in nurder was one of the consequences. quences. Another consequence was the spectacle presented to the community where policelien went on the witness stand and showed their sympathy with the murder and even their approval of it, eagerly tried to exmuste or excuse it, and bore testimony with equal spirit to the "good" character of the assessin and to the "bad" character of his victim.

It may not be rational to expect reform in the police service of Fortland, but it is in order nevertheless to desuand it. The conduct of the police of this city has long been a seandal. Vice that has its favor—and vice may always have its favor—is protected by it. Through its mercenary instincts hes the road to imputity for vice and crime. Its behavior is a disgrace to the city, and a double disgrace to the commissioners in authority over it. It is inefficient in everything for which a police force is properly maintained; it is efficient charfly as an ally and protection of the classes which should be subjet to surveillance and represssion, and it ought to be shaken out, from top to bottom.

GREATLY MISTAKEN.

The interview reported in a San Francisco paper with W. H. Mill, vice president of the California board of trade, emecaning Oregon, whence he had just relatined, gives a really preposterous statement of the region west of the Cascades, and from an entrely wrong standpoint. Mr. Mills alludes to the nountain and forest lands held by the (). & this question ander their grant, and argues this question entirely from that standpoint. Where there is not heavy timber he says there is almost impenetrable undergrowth and the reclamation of soils here is an exand the rectamation of soils here is an ex-pensive and hereulean task, much greater than to improve land in California.

Mr. Mills ignore, the fact of millions of open prairie and hillsides existing here under the finest cultivation and waiting for Western Oregon there are immerce as easy of open or bushy shillsides most admir. By suited to agriculture, and while a great cost of this land is already stear the rest of it can be thoroughly cleared at $5 to $20 an acre expense for grubbing. The original cost of such land, according to the vicinity of ranand transportation, will not be more the 76th transport and the cost when cheared will not exceed $25 to $60, according to head-ity. This refers to available hill brief where the soil and elevation are as fat epable a possible for fruit culture. This Land a diproduce everything eise.

There is no reason to suppose that Mr.

Mills intends to assert falsehrods, so we may suppose that he was wrongly informed, or received wong impressions on various points. He credits a cwith producing at plus, rd k milly say - Chilifornia can lay down, all other fruits allour doors better and cheaper. other fruits at our doors better and chapter than we can produce them. We can not grow any fruit but the apple to compare with California, he ways. Let us seen Fruit men of California concede that we produce several fruits in greater excellence than they can. In pears we equal any country on the earth; our cherries are unsurpaised, for this very mouth boxes of Royal Ain cherries have been packed that averaged one and one-eighth meh in diameter, and the flavor was not to be excelled. In pittins and prunes Oregon-and especially Western Oregon-bus no superior, and in fact no equal. This is the prime country, par excellence, of the world, and in compension with foreign primes and California primes at St. Faul and Chicago our cured fruit has commanded at least 30 per cent, higher price, and will always do so. The aprient is not one of our fruits, but we can grow penches of finer quality than those generally grown in Cali-fornia. The flavor is liner in all our fruits. To sum up: In the Willamette valley, of hill land or upland, well suited to the purpose, there can be a million acres found that are adapted to fruit growing, and as much more in the valleys to the south. To the south grapes and peaches grow unfailingly, and in the northern valleys apples, pears, plums, prunes and cherries attain the greatest possible excellence, as do all the small fruits. When a country can lill a gallon measure from twenty-four strawberries and those of unequaled quality, there is no

Eastern Oregon, also, has many districts as well adapted to truits as could be desired. As yet, the experience and development of that section has not been determined as well as here, but along the rivers in the canyons and narrow valleys of all the streams peaches, grapes, apricols and many of the fruits of that lutitude besides are grown. It is very enterprising and no ucoult kindy meanth Chilfornia to be willing to supply us with fruits, but we can do fairly weit for ourselves. Their carliest fruits and their semi-tropical products we have use for, and onose to pay them back in kind with our

A woman was tried for her life and acquitted at San Bernardino last week for killing a men, who bud outraged her young daughter. She made no demal of the act, but rested her pica for her life upon the grave provocation that led to it. Whatever else may be alleged to the discredit of the Amer-ican juror he is usually prompt in declaring himself in a case of this kind, it being a part of the unwritten code of our common humanity that a man, who loses his life in con-sequence of an act so vile, meets his just dearts. Certainly, if there is such a thing as justifiable homitride, and juries every day in the year declars by their verdicts that there is provocation that warends one, man in taking the life of another, a case of this kind furnishes the strongest possible ex-

COMMERCIAL HUMAN NATURE.

Mr. W. D. Howells, whose name has become a synonym for tedious chapters in popular magazines, innocent of plot, and called by coursesy "stories," is accredited with the remark that "perhaps the American magazine is a little despotic, a little arbitrary, but unquestionably its favor is essential to success in authorship." sential to success in anthorship."

This assertion may well be doubled, if the returns of the book stalls are to be taken in all instances as a gauge of success. Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, one of the most prolific, and, from a financial standpoint, the most successful writers of fiction which the nast generation produced, has never at any time in her long literary career been able to time in her-tong literary career been 2 her to get into the magazines. Sylvanus Cobb is another writer whose stories did not pass muster, with magazine editors. William Nye, whig may be presumed at least to have made writing "pay." has never had an arti-cle accepted by a magazine. The standard of popular syccess furnishes, however, a reasoundly conclusive argument on the other side; of which the name of Mr. Howells is

In giving preference to the works of authors whose names insure readers above writers of equal, or perhaps greater, ability, who have still their way to make in the world, magazine managers are like ordinary mortals. It is a commercial principle, does not assume to be governed by equity in the abstract.

A corporation, for example, casting about for a man to manage its affairs, will may $25,000 for a man who has, through experience, acquired a reputation in that particular line of business, while an unknown subordinate, who may perhaps discount his suordinate, who may perhaps discount has su-perior in sagacity and business capability, would not be able to secure the place upon any terms. This is commercial human na-ture—a trait that does not traffic in justice nor worry itself greatly with discriminating details that decide points of merit, but cin-pleys that which will give the best returns from the investment.

ploys that which will give the dear returning the investment.

If a magazine, in engaging its writers upon this basis, runs its monthly sales up to 75,000 or 120,000 copies per month, it is justified in the exercise of this quality of mmercial human nature, even though in dividual merit may suffer thereby, since the object of its publication—that of making money—is attained, and it has the best of reasons for thinking that the public is satisled with the literary standard that it has

Under the presence of the discarree ments so easy to procuse that Minnesota and Wisconsin are considering the question of jury reform. In Wisconsin agitation is discreted toward securing a chance in the method of selecting furies. The Miswanker reacted heady two-fold. These were fractical results that the period did not wish the nethod of selecting furies. The Miswanker reacted heady two-fold. These were fractical results that the period did not wish the nethod of selecting furies. The Miswanker reacted the adjusted in a recent urgent appeal for a change says that the "American jury system, especially in cities, is an effect relic," and that as a consequence, in the larger toward and cities trial by jury is coming to the reparded as a farce. In Wisconsia jury men are selected from each town by the supervisor of the towar, who considers it as paironage and beatow, it where he libities it will do him the most good. The Federal courts have a much offer class of jurymen because they are selected by a special combination of the most good. The Federal results with the empty honor of the larger of the reaction of the period of the most good. The Pederal results are income, and shown as a first period of the most good. The Federal results with the empty honor of the larger of the reaction of the reaction of the larger of the reaction of the larger of the reaction patronage and bestow it where the times is with do him the most good. The Federal courts have a much better class of jurymen because they are selected by a special commissioner who has no connection with the court save the duty of selecting the panel. An effort was made in the last legislature of Wisconsin to adopt some such system for the state courts by taking the selection of jurymen from the town afficers and giving it to a commissioner for the whole county, but it failed through the opposition of men among the law makers who are or expected to be town superviors. In Minneson a change is sought in the traditional requirement as to the unanimity of the twelve in a verdict. It is proposed to provide that the acreement of three-routins shall be sufficient to declare a case. This new rule is to copy only to civil cases. Both to copey only to civil cases. Both childrenia and Louisiana some years ago unde the agreement of nine out of twelve sufficient in civil cases, and under the French code we think only a majority is necessary for conviction. A judge in New Jersey recontributed to allow jurgers to be chal-lenge! on the ground that they had read ar-tice in the messpacers about the case they were to try: but in Massachuserts the judger hold the reading of a newpaper absolutely disqualifies a man for ervice on a jury, and the New York court of appeals, in the Green-field case, held that a jurger was incompetent absolutely and the reading as to the cuilf or improwho had an opinion as to the guilt or inno- up new comma relai fields for the manufac-

In this new supper-reading age, under this rusing, it is difficultied understand how the prosecuting attorney can get a competent jury that will not be composed of listless. In this new paper-reading age, those the private set the man was or was not. It is difficulty outliers that how the proseculing attorney can get a competent jury that will not be composed of listless, supply, solden, inducing the composed of listless, supply, solden, inducing the private set is man by the great seles of serve and the prosecular prefered to be to get on the jury, and therefore knaves. A man in this age who does not read some newspaper and form some opinion concerning the guilt or innocence of one accused of murder, is not let to be on a jury or in any position of grave responsibility. For he is too dull and stupid to do justue; and a man of well known intelligence who declares that he has formed no opinice, presumably has purified hunself by a false-hood in order to six on the jury and "hane" and a man of well known migligence who dectares that he has formed no opinion, presumably has purified houself by a false. hood in order to sit on the jury and if for the prisoner. The energetic efforts of the prosecution in New York and Chicago to convict the "boodle" alderness falled in several instances from the disagreement of the jury forced by the presence upon it of men who, under the rule of selection, would be either dullards to the point of fillterate imberility, or bright ruscals swearing to their own competency in order to save their friend. In other words, under the present rule of qualification, it is difficult to get a jury that will not be controlled by ot senerant stunid fellows, weighted by weak, ignorant, supput tenows, weighted by a few bright men, who, for a corrupt pur-jose, pretend to an opacity of intellect and utter listlessness to the sensational life of the world around them for the very purpose of sitting with the jury as the next friend of the prisoner. With such juries disagreements are easily forced by the coun-

set for the detense; he throws dust in the eyes of houset ignorance and prejudice, and winks pleasantly at corrupt intelligence which, if need be, can be relied upon to "hang" the jury, prevent conviction, com-pet a new trial, and finally weary out the patience of the prosecution, who in despair consents to the discharge of a guilty man because he cannot get a jury that is at once intelligent, incorrupt, free from prejudice and above fear.

If the murderer of Dr. Cromin were arrested and just on trial to-morrow in Chicago, it would be very difficult to get a jury that would conject. The victim of political response, for a united as a British say his memthat would consider he viction of political re-vence, demonsted as a British say, his mem-ory would be edicus to the dynamite faction of the Clamma-Gael, and it would be difficult to get a jury that would not, under the pres-ent system of selection, include either some honest ignorant, passionate sympathizer with his assassius, or some corrupt prof es sional juror who would "hang" it in face of the strongest evidence of the prisoner's guild. In the event of the second true of Olds in a community like this, where nearly every a person sufficiently intelligent to be a juror who has not read the newspaper report of the former trial with the editorial comment and has not formed an opinfon. The evi-dence in the second trial will hardly include anything new, and yet when the second trial takes place a jury will have to be sought from those who did not take interest enough in the first triab to read its report, or who lie when they say they haven't read it, in order to shield the murderer.

APTROVAL OF HIGH LICENSE.

New spapers of Pennsylvania very generally agree that the great majority against pro-hibition in that state was due largely to the practical results of the high license system, which has been in force there during the past which has been in force there during the past two years. The Philadelphia Times says: The trial of high lineuse, the beneficent results which followed it, and the judgment of several New England states which had experimented in prohibition and voted against it within the last few weeks, were great obstacles in the way of pro-hibition in Penusylvania; and to these must be udded the general nawillingness of the conserva-tive voters of the tate to make the prohibition experiment by constitutional amendment that could not be revised, when it might be as well done by

It is not an easy matter to learn what profits tro made by trusts. All that the public knows is that the men co-incated with this modern product of business life have become enormously rich and that trusts have gone on and multipled until they have become a power the extent of witch cut hardly be estin did. The parent of all trusts—the biand and Oil—first took the position that it was as Mr Blaine subsequently declared purely a private affair and other trusts have followed the example of secreey thus set them.

The Sugar Trust, which has so oppressed that the price of refined sugar has risen continously ever since the trust was formed
